UNIVERSITY OF KALYANI
SUPPLEMENTARY ANSWER SHEET (17.5)

Q.10. (a) Top-down approach

Basic principle of top-down approach is to break larger grain sizes into smaller one by the process of crushing, milling, grinding etc.

Bottom-up approach in nanotechnology is making larger nanostructures from smaller building blocks such as atoms, molecules.

(b) Advantages of photolithography:

- (i) It is very versatile method.
- (ii) It is highly suitable for mass production.
- (iii) This process is widely used for fabrication of high density and large area disc materials.
- (iv) It is used in printing electronic boards, comic page, printer plate etc.

(c) Disadvantages of photolithography:

- (i) It is very expensive because of the cost of machine.
- (ii) This procedure is directional and is unable to cut horizontally.

(d) The crystalline size reduction to to the nanometre scale results in a significant increase of the role of the interface defects such as GB, twin junctions (TJ) and characteristically distorted layers.

(e) Interfacial properties on a nanometre scale can be different from those of conventional grain coated materials.

(f) The reduced crystallite size can be overlap by characteristic physical lengths such as the mean free path of electrons in the Frank-Reed loop size of two dislocations and so on.

(g) Photolithography — Lithography is one of the best used techniques of top-down approach. The word lithography from a Greek word 'litho' that means stone and graphia which literally means to writing on stone. The word photo means light and in case of photolithography, silicon wafer act as stone and patterns are written on its surface with the help of light sensitive polymers called as photoresist or mask. The entire process consists of a series of steps which establish the shape, dimensions and location of some parts of a bulk surface or of a thin film. The steps involved in the photolithography process are wafer cleaning, barrier layer formation, photoresist application, soft baking,

Q. 2 Density of states

It is well known that as per band theory of solids in condensed matter physics, N atoms with n atomic orbitals form N molecular orbitals. Each molecular orbital can take two electrons so that there are a total of $2N$ energy states. These energy states are discrete but for large values of N , the spacing between them are so small that they can be considered to be continuous forming a continuous energy band. Density of states (DOS) is defined as the number of available energy states per unit energy per unit volume.

The unit of DOS is $\text{J}^{-1}\text{m}^{-3}$ or $\text{eV}^{-1}\text{m}^{-3}$ and the dimension is $\text{m}^{-3}\text{L}^{-1}\text{eV}^{-1}$.

DOS provides information on how the energy states are distributed in a given solid.

If $g(E)$ is the DOS, then the total number of electrons in a band, $N(E)$ is where the integration is performed over the entire energy band. This equation assumed that the probability of occupation of the state is 1.

$$N(E) = \int_{-E}^{+E} g(E) dE$$

DOS in a 3d uniform solid material -

$$g(E) = \frac{1}{4\pi^2} \left(\frac{m^*}{\hbar^2} \right)^{3/2} \sqrt{E}$$

DOS in a 2d uniform solid material -

$$g(E) = \frac{m^*}{2\pi\hbar^2}$$

About the Department:
 The Department of History, Sripat Singh College was established in the year 1949 offering only the General course. With the passing of time and the gradual demand of the society as well as the success rate of the students of general course led the college authority to open the Honours in the year 1967-68. At present, the Department has four full time teachers & one GAT. Since the very beginning, the department proved as one of the efficient departments of the college by producing a number of bright students, who have made their mark in different fields. And the several did not stop together and presently more than 300 hundred students are placed in various corners of the country, which is a matter of pride for the department.
