

Report on the Special Lecture on "Vegetal Thinking: Literature and Environment in NEP 2020"

On 22nd February 2025, the Department of English and IQAC of Sripat Singh College organized a special lecture on "Vegetal Thinking: Literature and Environment in NEP 2020." The session was delivered by Dr. Subhadeep Paul, Assistant Professor, Department of English, Bankura University. The lecture offered profound insights into the post-human transition and the role of plants in this transformation, making it an enlightening experience for all attendees.

Inauguration and Attendance

The event commenced at 11:30 a.m., in the presence of distinguished faculty members from various departments. Among them were:

- Dr. Abdul Kader Ahammed, the senior-most professor from the Department of Political Science and Teacher-in-Charge in the absence of the Principal, Dr. Kamal Krishna Sarkar
- Dr. Prasenjit Nanda, Associate Professor, Department of Philosophy
- Dr. Sagar Simlandy, Department of History
- Dr. Mitali Tikadar (TCS), Associate Professor, Department of Bengali
- Dr. Ashique Rashul, Assistant Professor, Department of English, Haringhata Mahavidyalaya (Special Guest)

A significant number of students from Semesters I, III, and VI, along with faculty members from the English Department, also participated in the lecture.

Lecture Highlights

Dr. Subhadeep Paul elaborated on the concept of vegetal thinking, highlighting the interconnectedness of literature, ecology, and post-human studies. His lecture shed light on how plants and their agency are increasingly becoming central to contemporary humanities and environmental studies. Dr. Paul's lecture focused on the intersection of literature, environment, and ecology in the context of National Education Policy (NEP) 2020. He explored the concepts of eco-humanism and post-humanism, highlighting their relevance to the NEP 2020 syllabus. The session provided a valuable platform for students and faculty to engage in critical discussions on the intersection of literature and environmental consciousness.

Appreciation and Conclusion

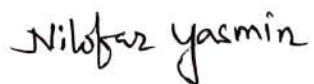

As a token of appreciation, certificates were distributed to the faculty members of the English Department, handed over by Dr. Subhadeep Paul himself.

The Head of the Department, Nilofar Yasmin, handed over the certificate to Dr. Subhadeep Paul. Students who registered for the program and filled out the feedback form were given participation certificates from the departments.

The lecture was highly engaging and thought-provoking, fostering a deeper understanding of ecological consciousness in literature. The event successfully concluded with an interactive session, where students and faculty members actively participated in discussions on the key themes presented.

The Department of English at Sripat Singh College expressed gratitude to Dr. Subhadeep Paul for his invaluable contribution and looks forward to organizing similar intellectual engagements in the future.
